

Introduction to OHS Act for Supervisors

Overall Aim:	At the completion of this awareness training session Supervisors will be aware of their rights & obligations to employees under their care in line with the OHS Act & Associated Regulations.
Course Outline:	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Introduction to OH&S Act• The Principles of Health & Safety Protection• Duties of Persons who manage or control workplaces• Discrimination• Duties of employers• Duties of employees• Duty of care• Hazard identification• Hazard control measures• Responsibilities & duties of a supervisor
Site:	On site at our premises or yours.
Delivery Dates:
Total Hours:	4 hour duration
Class size:	Maximum 15 Participants
Resources:	Resources will be supplied by Australian Testing Services.
Course Costs:	P.O.A
Facilitator:	Ralph Wollard – AUSTRALIAN TESTING SERVICES

Introduction to OHS Act for Supervisors

This course is designed to make Supervisor's & Forepersons aware of their rights & obligations under the OHS Act. Sections of the act relating to employee supervision are summarised & discussed. Case histories are analysed & correct solutions are found.

For many in a Supervisory capacity this may be all about Attitude. People attending this training should do so with an open mind.

This course is not a complete summary of the Act.

This is an awareness course. There is no pass or fail on this course. Statements of Completion are issued to participants.

For information & booking contact :

Ralph Wollard – Australian Testing Services

- Ph: 03 55 235491
- Fax: 03 55 232013
- E-Mail: australiantesting@iprimus.com.au

